

Good afternoon Webb Feet Parents!

I hope week 5 has met you with a smile on your face! I am writing to you with an update from the academic office.

First off, I want you to know that I am really proud of how the students have met this challenge. Their public school counterparts are finished with their year (though they are encouraged to keep learning), and the Webb students are taking a more challenging path alongside us. This has certainly not been easy for anyone; however, there are just a few more weeks left. I hope they continue to have pride in their work, and they finish strong!

First, I'd like you to know that we are going to slightly adjust our schedule in May. Webb teachers will assign new work through Thursday, May 14th. Friday, May 15th, will be a free day; a day to catch your breath. Hopefully the sun will shine, and everyone can get outside and enjoy a three-day weekend. May 18-21 are "GRACE and CHALLENGE" days. This is a week to turn in late work if your child has fallen behind or to make revisions. If your child has stayed on top of everything all along, it is a week to be challenged. Their teacher will give "challenge" work. They can complete it if they choose to do so. However, if they do not complete it, that is OK. It will not count against them.

So here it is again:

May 14- last day for new work

May 15- Catch your breath

May 18-21 Grace and Challenge Week*

*If you are in an AP Class, you may be given assignments up until the day of your test if that falls in the May 18-21 week.

I also want to mention to you that the leadership is discussing some of the end-of-the-year events that we typically have at Webb. Many of the events that we have in the spring will be moved to the fall, such as National Honor Society Induction, Book Awards, etc. We will have a lot to look forward to when we can get back to campus!

As a gentle reminder, please make sure your students talk with their advisor so that they can select their courses for next year. I will begin the process of scheduling students in classes for the 2020-2021 school year in early June. Only students who have submitted their '20-'21 enrollment contract will be scheduled.

Please let me know what questions you have!

My best,

Mrs. Taucare
